Your security solution

Solutions Online was designed with security of information foremost in Actrol's requirements when building this website. Utilising Digital Certificates and SSL encryption achieves this.

The combination of SSL Encryption and digital certificates protects your private information so that it can be safely viewed over the internet.

Digital Certificates are used to uniquely identify both the detail available from Solutions Online and the holder of the certificate. Actrol's Digital Certificate is issued by Digi Cert, a Web Trust Certificate Authority. It ensures that you are using Actrol's server and it uniquely identifies your computer to us. It prevents anyone from impersonating either our server or your browser. Digital Certificates are used by Government agencies such as the Australian Taxation Office.

Data is transferred in an encrypted format to ensure the privacy of the information given. The SSL encryption is the same as that used by most e-commerce and banking sites.

Your digital certificate is issued on a CD. When loaded, the CD will automatically open on an introductory page that will give you information including how to load the digital certificate.

A short demonstration video file is also included.

Your licensing solution

Your personal digital certificate issued to your company allows the owner to licence other users with all, or just specific sections, of the data available. This gives you, the digital certificate holder, total control allowing you to add or delete users and customise their specific data access as required.

Your licensed user may be given access to just one account, or a set of accounts. For instance, that person maybe a manager of a region needing access to a set of accounts, or perhaps your licensed user can only review refrigerant because they just oversee the ARC reporting.

Total flexibility allows you to licence whoever you need to, with whatever you want them to access.
